VOL. XXXXIV. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 19, 1897. NO 121.

LONDON ENVELOPED IN FIERCE FLAMES.

Over Ten Million Dollars Worth of Property Is Destroyed in Short Order.

BIG BUSINESS BLOCKS CONSUMED.

The Fire Spread With Great Rapidity Across the City.

MANY NARROW ESCAPES.

Factory Girls Flee for Their Lives From the High Buildings.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—A most disastrous fire is raging here. In several streets adjacent to the general postoffice huge blocks of buildings are blazing fiercely.

Many houses have collapsed and fifteen warehouses have already been destroyed. The buildings are ablaze on the side streets, thus preventing the firemen from reaching the burning buildings. Well street is involved from end to end.

The fire broke out in Hammel street and worked through the houses to Well street, a narrow thoroughfare. There the flames leaped and seized the opposite houses. From that time the conflagration extended rapidly both up and down the street. The flames rapidly nearing Nicholas Square, which is surrounded by tall warehouses.

The fire brigade has given up all hope of subduing the fire and is devoting its energies to prevent its spread. The occupants of the threatened buildings are hastily removing their books and business documents. No casualties thus far have been reported.

At half-past three this afternoon thirty fire engines were engaged in fighting the flames and others are arriving momentarily from all parts of London. Many thousands of people have gathered to see the fire. One end of Jewin street is now attacked by the flames. It represents the appearance of a huge furnace.

Several large buildings have already fallen and the debris completely blocks the roadway. The damage is enormous. Most of the buildings destroyed were six stories high and filled with merchandise.

The flames by 5 P. M. had worked their way from Jewin street into Cross street, where an entire block of houses on the west side of the street was threatened.

Over forty engines were at work by this time.

It is impossible to make an estimate of the damage or regarding the real extent of the fire at present.

Various newspapers publish sensational estimates of the loss. Many of the buildings burned or threatened contained large numbers of girls employed in various capacities. Very many of them escaped with difficulty.

The area of the fire is at least 100,000 square yards. Sixty warehouses have already been destroyed and the fire extends from Wood street to Alders Gate street.

The damage is estimated at £2,000,000.

The fire originated in the store of an umbrella manufacturer on Hamsel street at 1 o'clock this afternoon and the great loss of property seems to be due to the delay in summoning the fire department.

One published report says the police officer who first detected the flames blew his whistle loudly for assistance, but several minutes elapsed before the alarm was heard by any of his comrades.

But here again there was an unaccountable delay of twenty minutes before the first engine appeared. Then the fearful dimensions of the fire were apparent and it was decided to circulate a call through the whole metropolitan district. At 6 o'clock the fire was reported to be under control. Cripplegate church is saved, but is badly damaged.

The general postoffice is on St. Martins Le Grande, on both sides of the street, the new building being a magnificent structure that cost over $1,500,000.

On the east side of the street is the general postoffice east, built in the Ionic style in 1825. This building is 390 feet in length. Opposite the general postoffice east is the general postoffice, which was built in 1892. The large telegraph galleries measure 300 feet by 90 feet and contain 500 instruments, and the number of telegrams conveyed in the year is about 70,000,000. This building cost over $2,000,000. In November, 1870, the foundation of the general postoffice north was laid. It was finished in 1893. It contained the offices of the Postmaster-General and cost over $2,500,000.

The Church of St. Gallis was built in 1545. It is approached by an archway in Red Cross street, also within the scene of the conflagration, and contains the tombs of John Milton, who died in 1674; Fox, the hartyrologist; Frobsher, the voyager, who died in 1594, and Speir, the typographer, who died in 1874.

Oliver Cromwell was married in the Church of St. Gallis August 22, 1620, and the parish register contains an entry of the burial of Daniel DeFoe, author of Robinson Crusoe, who died in 1761.

Milton is commemorated by a bust by Bacon and the late Geo. W. Childs of Philadelphia, erected a stained glass window in this church to the poet's memory.

In the church yard is an old bastion of the London wall and close by in London wall is a small part of the church yard of State Phago, containing another large fragment of the old wall built by the Romans.

Aldersgate and Cripplegate are named after two of the gates in Roman London.

RESULT OF REBELLION

Starvation Stalks in the Several Provinces of Little Cuba.

PEOPLE DIE IN THE STREETS.

American Citizens Are Living on Small Donations of Food.

SHARING OF SCANTY RATIONS.

Trying to Conceal the Bad News From the United States.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A special to the World from Havana says: "In every town in Cuba where there are American citizens, groups of starving islanders gather every day in front of the houses of those Americans and beg for the chrumbs that fall from the tables. That Americans have anything on their tables from which crumbs could fall is due to the relief fund of $50,000 appropriated last spring by Congress. Consul-General Lee has drawn so far about $25,000 of the total amount and has distributed it to the consuls in Matanzas, Cienfuegos, Sagua, Santiago and elsewhere. These consuls buy provisions and distribute weekly rations to distressed Americans.

"There are 1400 Americans on the relief-fund list. Of these, about 250 are American-born. The others are naturalized citizens and their families, who, having their citizen papers properly registered at the different United States consulates, are entitled, if in distress, to the same relief as American-born citizens.

"According to a statement made by Consul Barker, who is stationed at Sagua, about ten thousand people are being kept alive in Cuba by these rations distributed for the support of 1400. Neighbors gather around the front door of the houses of American citizens and beg a share of food that comes from the consulates.

"Where suffering is general these appeals are not in vain, and the scant supply of rice, jerked beef and bread is made to do service for five instead of one.

"In the town of Sagua, a person walking through the principal streets about 11 A. M. or 6 P. M., can tell the houses of American citizens by the crowds of starving creatures patiently waiting at the door to get even a mouthful of rice or even a crust of bread.

"The most pitiful sight is to see the babies in arms, hardly alive, and the small children, with their thin little legs and arms, all indicating lack of nourishment and death by starvation.

"There are no markets in any but the larger cities, because nothing is produced to supply them and no one has money to buy with. Misery is universal and suffering is everywhere, and the death rate goes up higher and higher each day.

"In the town of Sagua, where there is a population of about 20,000, the death list for five years before the war was 500 a year. In the month of August of this year 648 persons died of starvation alone.

"Consul Brice, stationed at Matanzas, reports that since July, 27,000 persons have died in his district. As he was crossing the public square one evening lately, he saw a man fall to the ground within a few feet of him and hastening to his side found he was dead. His body was nothing more than a skeleton. Such scenes recur every hour of the day all over the island where people are herded together.

"General Blanco's orders to allow the pacificos to cultivate land outside the military lines would diminish suffering if the people had the strength and the implements with which to work, but they have neither, and Weyler's scheme to exterminate the Cuban people is rapidly proving successful.

"It is believed here that Blanco has received orders from Madrid to do everything possible to prevent starvation reports from going to the United States."

FAILS TO GET THE DIVORCE SHE SOUGHT

The Court Refuses to Release Mrs. Travers From Her Better Half.

The suit of Theresa Travers of Alameda for a divorce from her husband, Percy Travers, who is alleged to have deserted her two years ago, and has taken up his residence in Los Angeles, came up in Judge Ellsworth's court this afternoon. The defendant defaulted. Mrs. Travers, accompanied by one lady friend and her attorney, R. B. Tappan, presented her side of the case, asking for the custody of the minor child.

Mrs. Travers, a handsome brunette of about 24 years, appeared very nervous while Judge Ellsworth was examining the papers in the case. Her lady friend, however, seemed to regard the situation in the light of a large joke and at times was almost unable to restrain her mirth.

The divorce was denied.

H. B. M. MILLER AT THE CLONDYKE.

He Earns Money by Means of a Very Large Fee.

A letter has been received in Sacramento by Mrs. Dr. Lomax of that place from her brother, H. B. M. Miller, the attorney, formerly of this city, who is now supposed to be in Dawson. He left here early in Clondyke fever time, accompanied by Mrs. Lomax's son. He succeeded with his sister's son in getting through Chilkoot pass and reaching Lake Linderman. By this time he had nearly exhausted all of the $700 which he had taken with him. He managed, however, to repay himself by using his boat to freight food and individuals over the lake and it is supposed by this time that he has left the lake behind and is now at Dawson.

Judge Bahrs Promptly Denies Durrant Another Trial.

Would Not Consider the Motion and so Stops Matters Abruptly.

AN APPEAL IS TO BE TAKEN.

It May Be Brought up in the State or Federal Courts.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Attorneys Deuprey, Dickinson, and Boardman appeared before Judge Bahrs this morning and asked that his honor set a day for the trial of the charge against Durrant of murdering Minnie Williams.

The motion was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Hosmer. Judge Bahrs listened to the arguments of Durrant's attorneys with very apparent impatience, and finally in an angry manner interrupted them, declined to hear anything further on the matter and denied their motion peremptorily.

Durrant's attorneys, while admitting, after adjournment, that they intended to found an appeal on Judge Bahrs refusal, said it had not yet been decided whether it would be made in the State or Federal Courts.

M'KINLEY WILL TALK ON LABOR.

The President Has the Subject Under Most Earnest Consideration.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Cabinet day at the White House caused a dearth of visitors and those who saw the President were those who had appointments.

President Gompers and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, saw the President and urged him to incorporate in his message recommendations for the better protection of labor.

The President informed Messrs. Gompers and Morrison that his message would be very long on account of the many subjects already treated and necessary to discuss. He said that at some time in the future he hoped to give attention to labor matters, either in a special message or some other satisfactory manner. The labor leaders want the immigration law amended so as to reduce the number of immigrants.

Immigration Commissioner Powderly has urged the President to make some recommendations and it was known that he had given favorable consideration to these suggestions.

Thomas F. Bayard, ex-Ambassador to Great Britain, went to the White House, accompanied by Secretary Sherman, and paid his respects to the President.

CAN POLYGAMISTS LAND IN AMERICA?

The Immigration Commission Will Soon Settle the Matter.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Commissioner General Powderly of the Immigration Bureau, has not yet been advised of the reported action of the local immigration officials at New York in refusing permission for the landing of six Mohammedans on the ground that they are believers in polygamy, or is he willing to state what his action would be in case the matter should be referred to him on appeal.

It is stated, however, that the Immigration Bureau would very likely proceed on the assumption that a polygamist is one who practices or advocates polygamy, and in that case the immigrants in question would be debarred from landing if it could be shown that they were advocates of polygamy, whether they practiced it themselves or not.

Similar cases, it is said, have been before the Bureau, but in those the officials were not able to prove that the immigrants advocated the practice. In case of an admission of their belief, it is believed they almost certainly would be deported.

KAISER'S CLUTCH

Details of the Seizure of the Island of Kiao Chau By Germany.

WILLIAM'S MOTIVE QUESTIONED

Place Seized While Chinese Were About to Punish Guilty Ones.

LOOKING FOR COAST TRADE.

Russia May Take a Hand in the Occupation of the Place.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister, has received the following official statement from Peking relative to the seizure of Kiao Chau Island by Germany:

"Upon the killing of two German missionaries by bandits in the district of Ku Yeh, in Shan Tung, a decree was issued peremptorily commanding the Governor of Shan Tung to order the high officials of that province to take immediate steps for the arrest and punishment of the offenders.

"On the 15th instant, the Governor reported by telegraph the arrest of four culprits, and this was communicated to the German Minister. But German warships had, on the 14th, advanced to Kiao Chau Island and landed troops, and, after occupying the high ground, gave the garrison forty-eight hours to retire. The German Minister did not give the Tsung Li Yamen any notice. On the evening of the 15th a telegram from the military superintendent of the northern port, giving a report of this occurrence, occasioned the greatest surprise.

"China, in view of the friendly relations between the two countries, thereupon ordered the Governor of Shan Tung to keep the garrison under strict control, to withdraw the troops to positions outside the limits of the island, and to enjoin them not to make any move without express instructions.

"This official statement places a new complexion on the press cables, in that it indicates that the Chinese Government had already taken active steps for the punishment of the murderers of the two German missionaries. The remarkable thing in connection with Germany's action is the fact in the foregoing cable that the Tsung Li Yamen (Chinese Foreign Office) was given no notification that the seizure of Kiao Chau was contemplated. Such a proceeding is said to be a flagrant breach of international comity, and is interpreted in some diplomatic quarters as evidence that Germany used her grievances as a pretext for the occupation of the island. It is believed that possibly Germany's object is to use the occupation of the island for a lever to compel trade relations with China.

"In the general scramble for commercial advantages in the East, Germany thus far has signally failed. She has absolutely no foothold on the Chinese coast, whereas England has concessions at the treaty ports and a trade arrangement which gives her advantages in Burmah and Thibet. In the event of Germany declining to relinquish Kiao Chau, which commands a fine port on the Chinese coast, she may have not only China, but Russia to reckon with. By a recent treaty between the Governments of China and Russia, the latter country, in return for pledged support in case of coalition with contingencies, is to have the use of Port Arthur and Kiao Chau harbor should the Czar become involved in war. Thus, to a certain extent, Russia has an interest in Kiao Chau. She would not be slow to protect it if Germany should manifest any ulterior designs.

BIG PLANS FOR HANDLING SUGAR.

Work on Warehouses and Piers Being Rushed at Long Wharf.

NO SIDETRACKING OF OAKLAND.

This City to Become the New Center of the Industry.

WORK FOR AN ARMY.

Heavy Investments That Are a Guarantee of the Future.

Work has just been commenced on one of the most important developments at the long wharf undertaken for many years.

The improvements now under way are another flat contradiction to the story that the railroad company intends to sidetrack Oakland. When completed, as they will be in a few months, this city will take a very decided step forward.

The plan now rapidly being carried out consists of the erection of wharves and large warehouses for the handling of the large sugar shipments that will come here for the mammoth refinery at Port Costa. These warehouses will be rapidly pushed to completion so that there will be ample accommodation for the cargoes of Hawaiian sugar that are already purchased and will be shipped here as soon as the refinery is ready to receive them.

It was found necessary to add to, and materially strengthen the wharf accommodations at long wharf so that warehouses of sufficient capacity could be erected. The cargoes will arrive here both by sail and steam and a complete new plant, consisting of warehouses, dockage, discharging derricks and switch tracks will be required, and these will soon be in place ready for use.

MEANS BETTER TIMES.

The importance of this new industry that will be added to those already having Oakland for a center, cannot be overestimated. At the present time many men are employed strengthening the pier and pile-driving and many more are preparing the woodwork for the large warehouses.

Not for a long time has there been such a lot of work under way at the pier, and when the sugar cargoes arrive a gang will have constant work for not only will the sugar have to be unloaded, but ballast will have to be supplied the ships, and it is not improbable that at no distant date coal from the Corral Hollow mines may be shipped from this city, as it is now at Stockton.

At long wharf this morning there was a busy scene. "This work will last a long while," said one of the foremen, "because the plans call for a very big job. The orders are for it to be completed as soon as possible, and I guess we will have it ready in time for the first cargo of sugar. This does not look as if the company intended to quit this side of the bay. There was some talk of landing the sugar on the other side of the bay and sending it up on barges, but this plan was discarded and it was decided to erect a complete plant.

"We shall be well on towards completion by Christmas, but I understand that it is possible that as soon as this job is completed other warehouse may be erected."

A few days ago one of the best known men in California who understands its land conditions better than, perhaps, any other, said that Oakland is destined to become the center of the sugar trade in this State. This is undoubtedly the case. Not only are the preparations for the refining of Hawaiian sugar being made, but the farmers of Alameda and Contra Costa counties are fast devoting more acreage to beets, so that the two factories at Alvarado and Carquinez straits can be kept running. This stream of trade must naturally center in Oakland, and certainly all the benefit to be derived from the increase of railroad and shipping traffic will be received by this city.

It is stated that there is acreage enough in Alameda county to support three refineries if sown to beets, and now that farmers are assured that their product has a good market, they are hurrying to take advantage of it. The building now going on at the pier and

DIPTHERIA IS RAGING.

The Board of Health Engaged in Battle With the Disease.

EIGHT CASES ON THE BOOKS.

Three of Them Prostrate in an East Oakland Home.

ONE OF THE PATIENTS DIES.

Systematic Efforts Made to Prevent the Spread of the Disease.

Last month, the report of the Health Office showed that there were three cases of diphtheria in this city. This month, the numbers will be in excess of that showing, although the health officials do not fear that an epidemic of the disease will be experienced such as is now supposed to prevail in San Francisco.

They are doing all they can to prevent the breaking out of disease of all kinds, but, at the same time, they appreciate the fact that they cannot entirely succeed in keeping people from becoming ill.

The most severe visitation at this time is that under which the family of William Skitch, at 728 East Thirty-third street labors. There are now three children prostrated and, on Saturday last, the youngest child, one of the four children remaining at home, died. The member of the family who was first affected is about eighteen years of age. Then the daughter who died, caught the disease and subsequently two other children aged respectively 12 and 10 years, were taken down. The disease manifested itself in the family about two weeks ago, the appearance of the children leading the parents to believe that the illness was simply a case of mumps. It was not until Friday of last week that a physician was summoned and Dr. Wilcox of East Oakland was called in. He immediately notified the parents that the disease was diphtheria and informed them of the gravity of the situation. The following day the youngest child died, and Dr. Wilcox pronounced her case to have been the most aggravated one of the kind he had ever seen. At the same time, he informed the Health Office of the occurence and immediately a sanitary inspector was sent to inquire into the case. The inspector found the afflicted home located in such a manner as to warrant the existence of the disease. The home is situated on a side hill. It is only recently that the locality has been supplied with a sewer and, with this sewer the house is not connected. A short distance from the home is a depression which receives the sewage of the property and in this is located the well from which the people draw water for home consumption.

It was learned that prior to the calling of Dr. Wilcox the Skitch children were in the habit of associating with other children and it was feared that the infection would spread. The doctor, however, put a stop to this and was backed up by the Health Officer and his associates.

The other patients in the Skitch family are reported to be progressing rapidly toward recovery.

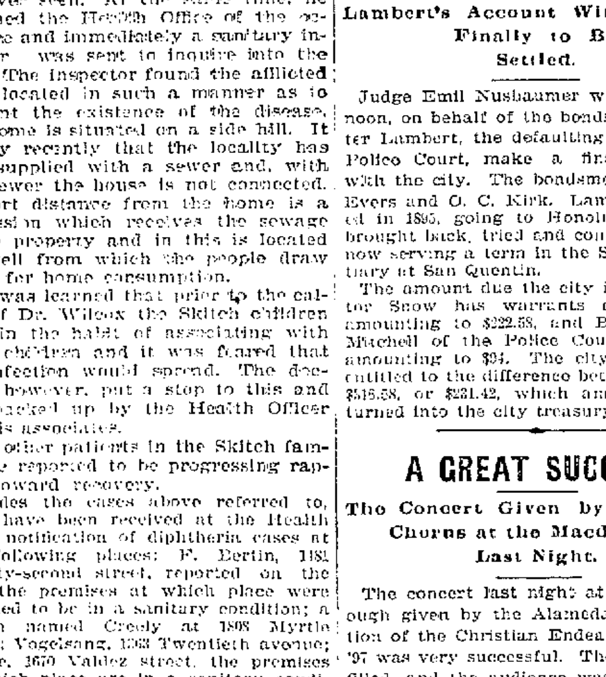

Besides the cases above referred to, there have been received at the Health Office notification of diphtheria cases at the following places: F. Bertin, 1181 Twenty-second street, reported on the 17th, the premises at which place were reported to be in a sanitary condition; a person named Creedy at 1808 Myrtle street; Vogelsang, 1363 Twentieth avenue; Rodtje, 1670 Valdez street, the premises at which place are in a sanitary condition, and at 1365 Tenth street there is a victim in the Carlson family, the home of which is now being examined by the Health Officers. The last case was reported today.

Dr. Dunn, the Health Officer of the city, has been devoting himself with a great deal of energy to minimizing the danger of the spread of the disease, and is confident that the sanitary condition of the city is such that the disease cannot spread in such a manner as to cause general annoyance. He knows of course that there are some premises and localities which are in an unwholesome condition, and both himself and the sanitary inspectors are doing all they can to remedy the defect.

The doctor had been told that there had been forty-five cases of the disease reported at the Health Office, and in reply to this report said:

"The rumor that forty-five cases of diphtheria have been reported at the Health Office is unfounded. There may be seven or eight cases of the disease in the city, but that is all, and we are doing all we can to prevent the number from increasing. As soon as a case is reported a sanitary inspector goes to the scene, inspects the plumbing, drainage and other sanitary essentials, and informs the occupants of the place what they should do in order to eradicate the disease and keep them from further contamination. As soon as a physician learns of a case of the disease, he informs the Health Office, and our preventive and remedial agents are instantly set at work. There is no danger of an unusual spread of the disease."

A CLEVER SHOW AT THE MACDONOUGH.

Dr. Loyd Cooke, the Spiritualistic Medium, Will Appear Sunday.

"Lost, Strayed or Stolen" opens a two night's engagement at the Macdonough this evening. This, the latest, and, the critics say, the greatest, of Cheever Goodwin's and Woolson Morse's successes, furnishes entertainment that in New York was found to be of sufficient merit to run over 100 nights at the Fifth Avenue Theater, fifty nights in Boston and the same length of time in Philadelphia. The composer and librettist called it a "comedy with music" adapted from the French, the critics call it comic opera, light opera, opera bouffe, musical comedy and French vaudeville. However, whatever it may be, the book is said to be exceedingly bright and strikingly novel in many ways, while the music is of the light, catchy order, that rapidly finds its way to the cylinders of the hand organs and the whistle of the street gamin. The cast presenting it is a remarkably strong one, containing such well known laugh makers as Charles Dickson, Harry Clay Blaney, Lucius Henderson, Charles A. Burke, Bert Thayer, Harry Allen, C. J. Alden, Al Holbrook, and such popular light opera singers as Anna O'Keefe, Oriska Worden, Mabel Bouton, Adelaide Nye, Marie Mather and Gertrude Burton, together with a large and efficient chorus, a troupe of Spanish dancers and an increased orchestra under the baton of J. C. Nicol.

SUNDAY EVENING.

Manager Swift has provided a novel attraction for next Sunday evening at the Macdonough in the appearance for the first time in Oakland of the spiritualistic medium, Dr. Loyd Cooke, who will give what he calls a series of manifestations of "spirit power in the light." Dr. Cooke has made a national reputation by his work, and comes here with the full endorsement of all the leading theosophical societies of this country as well as being fortified by letters of recommendation from several of the largest European societies. The seance which he gives takes place on a fully lighted stage, and the curious will be given an opportunity of applying any reasonable test for the sake of unraveling the mysteries surrounding his performance. Dr. Cooke does not lay claim to the possession of any supernatural power in accomplishing his feats, and yet it is claimed by those who have witnessed his seances that many of the things he does could not be accomplished without some aid from unseen forces.

AFTER THREE YEARS.

Lambert's Account With the City Finally to Be Settled.

Judge Emil Nusbaumer will this afternoon, on behalf of the bondsmen of Walter Lambert, the defaulting Clerk of the Police Court, make a final settlement with the city. The bondsmen are Henry Evers and O. C. Kirk. Lambert defaulted in 1895, going to Honolulu. He was brought back, tried and convicted, and is now serving a term in the State Penitentiary at San Quentin.

The amount due the city is $848. Auditor Snow has warrants due Lambert amounting to $222.58, and Bailiff Hussey Mitchell of the Police Court has funds amounting to $94. The city is therefore entitled to the difference between $548 and $316.58, or $231.42, which amount will be turned into the city treasury today.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

The Concert Given by the C. E. Chorus at the Macdonough Last Night.

The concert last night at the Macdonough given by the Alameda county section of the Christian Endeavor chorus of '97 was very successful. The theater was filled, and the audience was enthusiastic in its applause. The chorus of 400 voices, led by A. M. Benham, was assisted by the Philharmonic Orchestra, whose fifty players acquitted themselves very creditably. William J. McCoy conducted the orchestra. Beatrice Priest-Fine sang some beautiful solos and received several encores. Rhys Thomas' tenor solos were also very successful. The programme was very well arranged and carried out without a flaw.

A tablespoonful of the famous Old Jesse Moore Whiskey taken after each meal will cure dyspepsia. Obtain it at your druggist's.

Pickett as Superintendent

The new Superintendent of the Pacific Coast Borax Works in Alameda is Charles E. Pickett. He has returned from New York for the purpose of assuming the position. He was formerly connected with the works, but was sent to New York to take control of the works which Mr. Smith recently established there. His predecessor in his present position was J. H. MRS. HOGAN TESTIFIES.

Tells of the Life of Dora at the Time of Her Marriage.

NOVEL DEFENSE OUTLINED.

L. Streuber Wants the Jury to Declare Him a Reformer.

MARRIED FOR HER GOOD.

The Defense Is Now Engaged Putting on Its Witnesses.

A strange defense was outlined in the trial of Ludwig Streuber by his attorney, Fred W. Fry. The prosecution completed its direct testimony last night. The people's case had not turned out as strong as anticipated, largely owing to the fact that Dora Lemery Streuber, wife of defendant, shielded him as much as possible in testifying. When lawyer Fry later on made an opening statement it was seen that the young woman had cause to be conscience-stricken, if the theory of the defense be true.

The prosecution of Streuber has all along been urged on the theory that he married Dora Lemery to obtain control of her, and placed her in a disreputable house that she might contribute her earnings there to his support.

Lawyer Fry told the jury to-day he would prove this all a mistaken idea. He promised to show that Streuber first met the girl after she had fallen into evil ways, fell in love with her, and, after a variety of complications, married her to reform and save her from utter degredation. But the girl, taking advantage of his love, only married Streuber that she might use her wifely status to escape parental espionage, and indulge her inherent desire to lead a sporting life.

Belle Hogan, in whose house Streuber and wife went to reside immediately after their marriage, was the first witness for the defense. Soon after going on the witness stand she fainted and was removed to a hotel to rest.

Miss Hogan was little improved after seventeen hours rest, but succeeded in telling the jury that Streuber desired his wife to leave her house to go into the country, but did not say it was because the house was disreputable. It was Streuber who came with a license to her house, saying he and Dora were to be married. But Dora disappeared for four days. She then returned and pleaded with Streuber to marry her; he refused, and she threatened to commit suicide. Finally they went away and were married. The same night they returned to witness' house where the young bride declared she intended to stop and could henceforth take care of herself. Streuber, Miss Hogan declared, could not get his wife to leave her house. The witness also asserted that at no time after Dora's marriage to Streuber did she receive visitors at the Hogan house.

Dora Streuber was called for the defense, and Attorney Fry tried to impeach her testimony relative to receiving visitors at the Hogan house on the night of her marriage. The wife finally denied receiving visitors that night, but could not remember as to the subsequent nights.

A sensation was caused when Dora Streuber declared untrue her former statement and Police Court testimony relative to receiving visitors on her wedding night. She admitted she had so stated in the police office an hour after Streuber's arrest September 19th, again on preliminary examination in the Police Court, and yet again in the District Attorney's office a week ago. Lastly she reiterated it yesterday. But today she said it was nevertheless untrue, and she gave the queer reason for saying it on previous occasions that she hoped the statements would assist Streuber to an acquittal.

"I have not conversed with him about the case," she added.

Judge Greene asked: "Why do you want him acquitted, is it because you got him into trouble that you desire to get him out of it?"

Dora replied: "Yes, your honor."

Judge Green continued, "Is there any agreement between you as to living together again if he is acquitted?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the girl.

"When was that agreement made?" queried the Judge.

"Yesterday," was the answer.

Streuber was called in his own defense. His evidence up to adjournment at noon was to the effect that he had married Dora at her solicitation. He took her from home, and after she was away three days he got a license to marry her. Then she disappeared for four days, and he declined to marry her, but she threatened to commit suicide and he relented.

The trial is nearing an end.

APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC.

Ladies' Relief Society Asks Aid for the Thanksgiving Dinner.

An appeal has been issued through the secretary, Jessie Campbell, of the Ladies' Relief Society, for aid in providing a Thanksgiving dinner for its wards.

Hard times, enormous taxes which they are compelled to pay, and failure of income, again makes it necessary for the managers of the Relief Society to call upon an ever generous public for a Thanksgiving dinner for the aged women and the children at the Home, and a Thanksgiving dinner means a turkey. "The poor ye have with you always and whensoever ye will ye may do them service."

Any one who is willing to do this service for the Home can leave a turkey at Merriams, with name and address, on or before Thursday morning, November 23d, or notify Mrs. H. P. Gregory, 523 Caledonia avenue, where it may be found, and she will see that it reaches its destination.

ABOUT SPECIALISTS.

San Francisco Has a Syndicate Which Is Without Equal.

A Combine of English and German Physicians Who Throttle Disease.

According to Webster, a specialist is "one who devotes himself to a specialty in one or more directions." We have specialists in mining, engineering, electricity, literature, etc., in fact, all the sciences, professions and mechanics have their specialists, who, in other words, are a chief in excellence, and to them we look for the great results in their especial walk or direction in life. When, therefore, any special person or persons place themselves before the public and ask the patronage of the people by reason of some specific claim or knowledge on their part, we at once begin to look around and ask, is this person qualified—and can he do the thing claimed?

In the science of medicine, where there are so many laying claim to cure all the "ills that flesh is heir to," we should be more than particular in our investigations. We must be sure, for the bodily health—nay, the lives of dear ones may be at stake, and to fail in properly investigating the merits of claimants for such medical honors is almost criminal in its possible consequences—therefore, all such claimants should be thoroughly, completely, and exhaustively investigated.

The medical advertisers for specialistic honors are legion; the specialist in medicine must therefore understand the theory of disease and its remedies, the properties of drugs and their action upon the human organism, and in their ability to diagnose the normal condition of the body without ambiguity rests their claim to the honored name of specialist or specialists.

In this especial direction the public is called upon to investigate the merits of the English and German Expert Specialists of 731 Market street, San Francisco, being theoretically a syndicate of noted specialists banded together for the purpose of ameliorating the diseases of mankind.

Dr. P. Janss, the president and founder of this faculty of specialists, many years since conceived the desirability of combining together an aggregation of medical talent that would be enabled by its professional acumen to treat any case, however difficult or dangerous, with almost absolute certainty of beneficial results to the patient.

He, with his usual energy and perspicuity selected his aids and associates, men of national and international reputation, from both sides of the Atlantic.

Dr. Janss himself is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and of the Bellevue Hospital Medical College of New York, author of several noted medical works, and a pupil of the immortal Koch. Few men are so well equipped as Dr. Janss for the special work which he has assumed.

C. N. Hopkins, M. D. Ph. G., is a graduate of Cornell College, the College of Pharmacy, Chicago, the department of North Western University, Chicago, the College of Physicians and Surgeons, attendant at Cook county Hospital, and assistant at Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago. Dr. Hopkins has enjoyed special advantages that eminently fit him for his work, his splendid hospital training and clinical practice makes him a valued member of the staff.

Louis Meyer, M. D. K. R. C. V., a graduate of the Vienna Medical University, is a man of international reputation and has made his life work the diseases of man. His extraordinary prominence and abilities in European hospitals had preceded his arrival in America. His success in his department is phenomenal.

T. R. O'Brien, M. A., M. D., C. M., is an honor graduate of McGill University, Montreal, and for years assistant at Montreal General Hospital. Dr. O'Brien, whose fame had preceded him even to the Orient, was selected from a host of others and was appointed surgeon in chief of the Chinese Navy, being an honor to his abilities never before conceded to a foreigner.

F. Palmer, M. D., L. R., C. P., is a graduate of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, for five years connected with the Royal Infirmary and St. Thomas Hospital. Dr. Palmer's skill and reputation in surgery is world wide and his many valuable contributions on this subject are an authority, and his wide hospital experience and his well-known ability make him a valuable acquisition to this aggregation of medical merit.

CITY ATTORNEY'S REPORT.

He Sends Recommendations to the Various Council Committees.

City Attorney Dow this morning sent to the Council Committee on Ordinance and Judiciary an ordinance he was instructed to draw providing for the payment of $5,000 for one-half of the cost of paving Webster street between First and Fourth streets.

In regard to the ordinance requiring car companies to employ two men on each car, he has advised an amendment so that a violation will be a misdemeanor and will not act as a forfeiture of the franchise.

Another matter which Mr. Dow reported on was the bills of Drs. Burchard, Mauzy, and Barber, for examining insane patients arrested in the city. Mr Dow suggested that the physician should certify to the following before the city could legally pay the claims: That the person examined was committed; that the person examined was a poor and indigent person; that the city of Oakland, through its officers, secured the commitment (giving the name of the officers); that the fees demanded by the medical examiners have been allowed by the judge ordering the commitment.

A LITTLE ONE BORNE AWAY FROM PARENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knight Mourn the Death of Their Daughter Etta.

Sorrow has entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knight, 122 Tenth street, and over the bier of Etta, the winsome little four-year-old daughter the baby of the family, friends and parents alike mourn. The anguish of the bereaved father and mother is all the more poignant because the call to which the little one responded was sudden, the patient having been ill for only about twenty-three hours.

Death was caused by the rupture of a blood vessel, the attack having been occasioned by a violent vomiting, resulting from the child's having taken into the stomach something of an unpalatable nature.

Etta was a winsome little one, the admired of friends and relatives, and the idol of both father and mother.

In their home of sorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Knight have the heartfelt sympathy of hosts of friends.

The funeral will be held to-morrow from the residence of the parents, and will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Coyle of the First Presbyterian Church.

FRIDAY.....NOVEMBER 19, 1897.

A man near Woodland swallowed a $20 gold piece the other day. If there is any real merit to the gold cure, he ought to be an abstainer from now on.

The "Chinese Wall" due to the Dingley law does not seem to be seriously interfering with our export trade, for it is in fact larger with "the wall" than it was without it.

The increase of loans and discounts in the national banks during the past twelve months amounts to $500,000,000, and of deposits, $150,000,000. Who says the administration is not doing all that it promised?

The government has declined to take any newspaper men on the Bear on account of the impossibility of accommodating all the applicants. Now watch their efforts to scoop each other across the bay.

Gum chewing has invaded England and the British Medical Journal refers to it as a disgusting American habit and says it should be condemned. They don't like anything over there that they don't originate themselves.

Hayman not only stuck to his position that San Francisco is a theatrical jay town, but he rubbed it in by selling out his interests in his enterprises here. Good. Now we will show how well we can get along without Hayman.

Mr. Kasson, McKinley's new reciprocity commissioner is busily engaged in organizing his new bureau. He is well qualified for the position for he served a term as Minister to Germany and Austria and proved himself to be an eminent diplomat.

Contra Costa is trying to work up a Clondyke of her own. It is claimed that gold-producing gravel has been struck between San Ramon and Dublin and that the indications are very promising. How handy that Contra Costa Road would be if there proves to be any truth in the rumor.

General Blanco does not appear to be progressing very rapidly with his new policy in Cuba. The effects of the bad blood caused by Weyler's recall are being shown in the troubles he is having with his generals and as to paraphrase an old saying "An army divided against itself cannot stand," the cause of the insurgents appears more promising than ever.

Some people might think that the "rounders" are all interested in having an all-night ferry service established between Oakland and San Francisco. On the contrary, they are very much opposed to it, because the present excuse of "missed the last boat" that is so often given by a man who has absented himself all night from the bosom of his family will then be gone.

Michael and Chase, the cyclist champions of America and England, respectively, are to meet in a match race. The event promises to take on all the importance of an international test for supremacy and it is expected that fortunes will be wagered on the result. The Americans do not think that Michael has an easy race of it, by any means, but they are, of course, all confident that he will win.

A novel method of illuminating a big apartment is in operation in the library of the Columbia University. Suspended in the center of the great hall is a large, hollow globe seven feet in diameter and painted a dull white. This is not a receptacle of the light, intended to diffuse the rays by transmission, but is opaque and diffuses them by reflection. Upon this sphere are directed the concentrated beams of light from eight hidden arc lamps located at intervals along the gallery pilasters. The moonlight effect is heightened by a background of blue which constitutes the ceiling, and the ensemble is described as fine in the extreme.

The auction sale of the crowns and other royal furniture that has been stowed away all this time by the Dole administration looks like ringing down the curtain on the regal romantic drama. Whether or not the islands are annexed to the United States, it is certain that the present dynasty will not re-ascend the throne and it can be figured that monarchical government is stamped out there forever. This fact was well illustrated by the reception of Princess Kauilani on her arrival at Honolulu the other day. Instead of the anticipated native demonstration in her behalf, only 400 or 500 Hawaiians turned out to welcome her and it was easy to see that they have entirely abandoned the proposition of having a queen again.

LOCAL COLONIZATION.

Colonization plans are all the go now throughout the West and the success that is attending such movements shows that the undertakings are as sensible in practice as they are in theory. The system adopted is to have European agents who go into the thickly-populated centers of the Old World and work up a sentiment in favor of the colony proposed. They are equipped with the fullest data and information about the section they represent and the picture they can draw is such a tempting one compared with the scene of their labors that there is little difficulty in interesting enough people to make the venture a success.

The principal charm of this method is that the most desirable class possible is obtained as immigrants. The colony theory is not to bring the people over here and then turn them loose to shift for themselves the best way they can—on the contrary, the whole future is carefully mapped out and adhered to. In the first place, the site of the colony, consisting of so many thousand acres of land according to the size of the proposed colony has been secured. It is also decided as to what shall be done with it, as, for instance, the colonies near Salinas where beet raising on a large scale is to be done. With this understanding, therefore, the agents endeavor to obtain as many families as possible, for they know that that class of people will be more inclined to establish and keep homes than single men and those who have no ties on them.

Another commendable feature of this description of enterprise is that the colonists all have more or less means. They cannot participate in the project unless they have enough money to purchase or secure the land and also sufficient cash to build their homes and keep themselves going for awhile after they get here. In one of the colonies recently formed at Salinas on these lines, the amount brought by each family averaged about $3,000, so it will be seen that Monterey county added a very desirable element to her population.

As a rule it is easier to work up these colonies in the Teutonic countries, the Germans, especially, being very much inclined to enter into such projects. Some of the most thriving and important towns of Eastern Texas such as Schulenberg, Seguin, and Columbus, were created and built up in this way and the experience has always been that these German settlers stay where they locate and literally build themselves up with the country. The Schulenberg colony was established only about twenty-five years ago, yet a large percentage of the original settlers or their families are there yet, some of them being among the most wealthy property owners in the Lone Star State.

Nevada has just inaugurated one of these enterprises, 5300 acres of land having been set out for the purpose in a valley twenty-two miles from Virginia City. Twenty-one families have already been obtained and the land is being planted out to alfalfa and fruit trees. Some of the colonists are experienced farmers and there are carpenters, shoemakers, and mechanics among them so they attend to nearly all their own needs. They expect to have their land ready for raising a crop of wheat next year.

Surely Alameda county could offer as favorable inducements for a project of the kind as any other part of the West. In the lower end of the county there are large tracts of uncultivated land cheap enough to be applied to such a purpose and certainly capable enough of sustaining such a colony. The land could be planted to sugar beets, for instance, and as there is an ever-increasing demand for that crop, the colonists would be able to support themselves from the first. There is nothing experimental about such a proposition for the test has already been successfully made both in other States and some parts of California, and all that is needed to get such a movement going is to get the owners of the lands to co-operate on having the colony worked up in Europe. There is much to be gained and nothing to be lost by such a proposition for in addition to the sale of the land, thousands of acres of idle soil would be brought under cultivation and a sober, industrious element of population added to the community.

Secretary Wilson, the head of the Department of Agriculture, continues his practical work in pointing out to the farmers of the United States the importance of supplying from their own production the $400,000,000 worth of articles for which we send this amount of money abroad every year. $100,000,000 of this is for sugar and the remainder for hides, fruits, wines, animals, rice, flax, cheese, grains of various sorts, and other articles which can be produced by the farmers of this country. His annual report, which has just been presented to the President, states that his experiments thus far with the sugar beet convince him that we can readily produce all our own sugar and certainly nearly all the other agricultural articles will come from our soil.

Unless the banking influence is strong enough to control Congress, Postal Savings Banks are assured. The press of the entire country is practically a unit on the project and the warm support extended to it by the Postmaster General assures administration influence in its behalf. An interesting feature of the movement is that it is nonpartisan in every sense of the term and there will certainly be no stand taken on it on that score when it comes before Congress.

The preparations to celebrate California's golden jubilee next year are already so extensive that it is certain the occasion will be one worthy in every way of the history of the State. We certainly have a good deal to commemorate. It is to be hoped by the way that the silver men will not object to our holding a golden festival.

The story of Jim the Penman will sink into insignificance if it is shown as it is claimed it will be, that Count Esterhazy forged the documents that landed Dreyfus in prison. Circumstantial evidence is accumulating very fast for in addition to the fact that Esterhazy writes very much like Dreyfus, it is certain that he has been living far beyond his income, and must have had a supply from some outside source. The theory of course is that Germany paid him for the military secrets that have caused all the trouble.

A WOMAN'S PRAYER.

O Lord, who knowest every need of mine,
Help me to bear each cross, and not repine;
Grant me fresh courage every day,
Help me to do my work alway
Without complaint.

O Lord, Thou knowest well how dark the way,
Guide Thou my footsteps, lest they stray;
Give me fresh faith for every hour,
Lest I should ever doubt Thy power,
And make complaint!

Give me a heart, O Lord, strong to endure,
Help me to keep it simple, pure;
Make me unselfish, helpful, true,
In every act, whate'er I do,
And keep content!

Help me to do my woman's share,
Make me courageous, strong to bear
Sunshine or shadow in my life;
Sustain me in the daily strife
To keep content!

NOTES ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE.

General Neal Dow left no will. His property is estimated at $350,000.

One of Yale's football players is a theological student who preaches to a suburban congregation every Sunday.

Collegio Beda is the name given to the new English college at Rome by Pope Leo, in honor of St. Bede the Venerable. He rejected the names Pio and Leonino.

Thomas L. Henry of Pine Station, Pa., died the other day—so it was supposed—and his friends made preparations to give him a fine funeral. But the sad event has been indefinitely postponed owing to the fact that, when they were about to put the old gentleman on ice, he raised himself up, winked at the prettiest girl in the room, and asked what time it was.

Miss Marion Hunter, niece of Sir William Hunter, has been appointed the female member of the British medical corps sent out to combat the plague in India. She is, or was until lately, the only physician of her sex who holds the Cambridge diploma of public health. The duties of the medical corps are expected to consume six months.

The natives of "Thrums" are turning Mr. Barrie's fame to commercial advantage. A lemonade manufactured in the Kirriemuir district bears a label with a view of the famous "Window in Thrums," and a special brand of goods sold by a local shopkeeper has the inscription printed on its wrapper: "N. B.—Every packet bears a true picture of the Window in Thrums and Mr. Barrie's residence."

When the Prince and Princess of Wales were visiting an exhibition in London recently, on reaching the dairy department the Princess remarked to the manager: "I have always heard that the best butter in England comes from Denmark. Is that true?" The manager hesitated a moment and then said: "No, your highness; Denmark sends us the best. Princesses, but Devonshire the best butter."

Henry Krupp intends to create at Essen a museum of arms, which shall contain specimens ranging from the earliest date, and he has already began to make purchases to that end. The famous ironmaster's resolve in this respect originated in a number of visits he paid, when last in London, to various public museums, and it is his intension to bequeath to the German nation the collection he is now engaged in forming.

A popular German humorist has just passed away in the person of Gustav Schumann, who has died at the age of 46 at Leipzig, where he was engaged as teacher in a public school. Schumann had created, in conjunction with his late brother Paul, the humorous figure of Bliemchen, the "Particularist," whom he took, as it were, round the world, making everywhere his harmless satirical remarks. The "Bliemchen-Schriften" were read throughout the world where there are Germans.

Charles H. Ross, the inventor of "Ally Sloper" in English comic literature, died on October 12th. He is supposed to have drawn Ally Sloper's portrait from an old clerk of the customs who used to be whimsically known among his associates as "the Master Mind." He had a head of curious shape, of which he was inordinately proud. Like Ally, too, he had a wonderfully capacity for drink, and he had a wealth of old stories and queer sayings, and a Munchausen-like faculty of embellishing his adventures in the telling.

An Old Fashion Revived.

One of the New York daily papers, in commenting upon street novelties, says that a demand has sprung up in London for the sedan chair as a vehicle of fashionable travel. One firm, it is said, is busy in the manufacture of these relics, which of recent years have proved useful only as ornaments or on the stage. The new chairs are not to be decorated as of old, with paintings or gilded mountings, but the colors popular for the decoration of ordinary vehicles will be used. They will be painted black, dark green, blue or maroon, with light yellow, green and red for trimmings. The chairs will be very light, and the promoters of the scheme are said to expect their profit from the use of the vehicle for evening parties, dinners or other gatherings where the distance to be traveled is not great. Other passengers will not be carried, and the interior of the chairs will in this way be kept perfectly clean, and wraps or dresses of light color are not likely to be soiled. One of the guests at the Bradley-Martin ball last winter was very anxious to go from her home to the hotel in a sedan chair, on the ground that such a method of conveyance was the only possible one appropriate to the character she portrayed. But her family and friends persuaded her that, in spite of the propriety of the sedan chair, the journey down Fifth avenue would necessarily have to be undertaken under such strong police protection that the plan would lose its effect. Evidently in London no such curiosity exists. The new horseless carriage attracts nearly as much attention as ever, and one made in the form of a T cart, with bright red wheels, invariably attracts as many spectators as a torchlight parade.

HERE AND THERE.

Mrs. Van Cott, the evangelist, generally known as "Mother Van Cott," is to found an institution in the Catskills to shelter unfortunate women.

The Czarina of Russia took bicycle lessons during her stay at Darmstadt, and practiced daily in the private schloss grounds. The Danes, by the way, do not like the present imperial family of Russia. Their predecessors used to visit Copenhagen to spend their holiday money, whereas they now go to Darmstadt.

One of the pulpits from which John Wesley preached stands in front of a Wesleyan chapel at Wednesbury, England. It consists of a horse block, from which the founder of Methodism preached no less than forty-five sermons. In his time it stood by the side of a building in one of the open spaces of that town.

Since Queen Victoria has found it necessary to lean on a cane in walking, she has used a stout stick originally presented to Charles II. by a loyal citizen of Worcester. When the Queen first used it, it had only a plain gold top, but when she required something to give a firmer "grip" to support her better, there was added a queer little Indian idol, which had formed part of the booty of Seringapatam.

Mrs. Leland Stanford has one of the most remarkable collections of jewels in the world. They are valued at $2,000,000, and include a set of pink, a set of blue, a set of yellow, and a set of white diamonds. Some of these gems were owned by the Empress Eugenie and Queen Isabella of Spain. This is the collection of jewels Mrs. Stanford was to sell for the purpose of keeping the Stanford University going, but didn't.

Colonel Robert Warburton, who accompanies Sir William Lockhart in his expedition against the Afridis, as political officer, is an expert in Oriental affairs. His mother was an Afghan princess of high rank, who married an officer in the East India Company's service, and the present Colonel has always been in close touch with the native chiefs. He has lived at Luni Kotal for long periods and taken a patient interest in the welfare of the tribesmen.

The Hartford Times announces by authority that Mark Twain has paid all his debts by money which he has earned during the last two years. "This success," it adds, "shows what Mr. Clemens can do when he feels that he must. His actual earnings since he went abroad amount to $82,000, of which about $20,00 has been received for lecturing, and the remainder has been paid to him for his writings. He has now the comfortable prospects of a very large income from his books during the remainder of his life, and the certainty that his family will be well provided for. He is naturally in a very happy frame of mind, and, although he has been suffering somewhat from the gout since he has been in Vienna, the removal of the burden of debt from his shoulders makes the world seem vastly pleasanter to live in. The rapidity with which Mr. Clemens has paid off his obligations by his own efforts shows that there was absolutely no justification whatever for the attempt to get up a public subscription for his benefit."

Something About Artificial Eyes.

The cost of an artificial eye made to order varies from $6 to $15, or even more if what is called a complicated socket has to be fitted. The average retail price of an eye taken from stock is about $5. Prices are considerably affected by the circumstances of the purchaser, reductions being made to the very poor, and not infrequently eyes even being supplied free of charge in cases where this is requested by a physician attached to an eye and ear infirmary.

As to the causes which lead persons to require artificial eyes, a manufacturer said that in a great majority of cases the loss of the natural eye was due to accident, although, of course, there were others in which it was brought about by disease of the organ, an oculist removing the eye chiefly affected in order to preserve the sight of the other. Then, too, there were persons who were blind of one eye from birth. The accidents which produced the loss of an eye were of so many kinds that nobody was safe from them. A flying iron filing or other bit of metal might imbed itself in the eyeball of a workman, or any one might be hit in the eye with a stone or a hard snow ball. In one case which the speaker knew of a man lost the vision of an eye through a speck from the bill of a pet canary which he was letting hop over his upturned face. Another incident was even more curious, and could not have been prevented by any amount of care on the part of its victim. A little girl was sitting on the steep of her father's house, when a man threw a stone at a dog in the street. The missile struck the edge of the sidewalk and so rebounded as to hit one of the child's eyes and ruin its sight. It was a common mistake to suppose that an operation for the removal of a sightless eye was necessary in order to make room for an artificial one. On the contrary, when a person had a "stump," or blind, sunken eyeball it was the best basis for a glass eye, which in this case would be a very thin shell shaped to fit the ball. Moving as it did in accordance with the motion of the organ beneath it, such a vitreous covering was the most natural of all artificial eyes in appearance.

The writer had an opportunity to see this statement illustrated, for while he was in the office of the manufacturer it was entered by a young man who had a blind eye as a birth mark, and who came to have its glass shell replaced by a new one. His good eye, the right, was a fine one, large, well shaped, and in color a pleasing shade of brown. The other, when uncovered, was an unpleasant looking object, dull, shrunken, and half hidden by a contracted eyelid. When it was covered by the new shell, however, it appeared a duplicate of the right eye, and no one unacquainted with the facts would ever have suspected that it was artificial, or have observed anything peculiar about it.

The manufacture of glass eyes, according to the expert already quoted, was introduced about 200 years ago, but its earlier products were crude in coloring and in shape, the latter resembling the half of an egg which has been divided longthwise. A high degree of skill in the making of eyes to order for individuals was first developed in Paris about seventy years ago, and since that time no important changes have been made in the methods or the results.

THE LITTLE ONES.

A little girl who was left-handed and disliked the comments of her companions complained to her mamma: "I don't see why God put my right hand on the wrong side."

Little Margaret, hearing the remark from some one that she looked like her father, replied quickly: "We haven't got any father; we are widows."

Bertha (drawing her little hand gently down her father's cheek)—"I would like to kiss you, papa, if you didn't have so many pin feathers in your face."

"Charlie, why have you shut that dog up in the dark closet?" "Because it makes him so happy when he comes out," said Charlie.

A New Trick.

Artists are supposedly to be allowed to be odd in their dress if they so will, but if a man with a Van Dyck beard appear on the street to-day clad in a Persian lamb's wool cape, decorated in front with seven marten tails, and having a high Catherine di Medici collar, he may attract more than the passing attention of the police.

A young man went into the art rooms on Wabash avenue, where Mrs. Catherine Reynolds has an exhibition.

"Have you a Turner, madame?" was the query.

"No, no Turners."

"Ah, here is a Gainsborough. The light is a bit imperfect. That is better, thank you. I see you have some flower bits here on the floor. They are nature itself. Why not hang them higher? Gems of art should neither be floored nor skied."

The front door opened once more and another man with a Van Dyck beard entered. His beard was brown and his air abstracted. This second visitor was well dressed as to material, but he had on a box coat several sizes too large for him.

This second man had a liking for a picture at the left of the writing desk in the rear of the store, and while he was looking at it, the black Van Dyck bearded man expressed a desire to know the price of a small picture at the side of the store, away from the entrance. Mrs. Reynolds went with him to look at the painting, and while they were discussing the merits, the man with the voluminous coat walked out. He was followed soon by the other caller. It was only ten minutes later that Mrs. Reynolds discovered the loss of her Persian lamb's wool.—Chicago Tribune.

Back to the Farm.

A North Georgia farmer, who was possessed of some means, entered the office of his county paper and asked for the editor.

The farmer was accompanied by his son, a youth of 17 years, and as soon as the editor, who was in his secret sanctum, was informed that his visitors were not bill collectors, he came forward and shook hands.

"I came ter git some information," explained the farmer.

"Certainly," said the editor, "and you came to the right place. Be seated."

The farmer sat on one end of the table, while his son sat on the floor.

"This boy o' mine," he said, "wants ter go into the literary business, an' I thought you'd know of that wuz any money in it or not. It's a good business, ain't it?"

"Why—yes," said the editor after some little hesitation. "I've been in it myself for fifteen years, and you see where I've got to."

The farmer eyed him from head to foot, glanced around the poorly furnished office, surveyed the editor once more, then, turning to his son, who was still on the floor, said:

"Git up, John, an' go home, an' go back to plowin'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A New Word.

They were discussing various things in the Clerk of the Supreme Court's office the other day—that is, a party of Judges were. Finally the talk drifted on the subject of coining words and phrases.

Mr. Justice Allen made the remark: "I coined a new word the other day. It is a good one, I think, and perfectly natural, but I have been unable to find it in any dictionary. The word is 'enforcibility'."

The lawyers present studied a while and finally all agreed that the word would be very useful, and fit certain cases exactly.

Chief Justice Doster declared that he once used a word that exactly described a certain case, and it seemed to him that it was by far the best term to apply. The word used was "obtention," meaning the act of obtaining. Judge Doster finally discovered the word in a rare old work on interstate law.—Topeka Capital.

BOLD BURGLARS BREAK INTO A RESIDENCE.

Goldstone Home on Market Street Robbed of Jewelry.

Evidently the Work of Experts Who Understand Their Calling.

The most daring and successful burglary that has been perpetrated in the city for several months was reported to the Oakland police this morning.

The scene of the burglary was at the home of R. L. Goldstone at 1712 Market street. Jewelry of the value of $500 at the least calculation was stolen.

The family retired last night as usual at about 10 o'clock. Mr. Goldstone going personally to all the windows to see that they were properly fastened. Once asleep, not a member of the family awoke until this morning, when they were all startled to learn that the house had been ransacked during the night from the basement to the garret.

The thieves entered through the front parlor window. In order to do this they were compelled to break the sash lock of the window. They then carefully searched the house, and every piece of jewelry and a lot of silver plate found in the dining room was taken.

The thieves worked in a cool manner and showed conclusively that they were anything but novices at the game. The police believe them to be Eastern experts, and think that there were at least two, and maybe more, in the job. They were particularly careful to leave no clue by which they might be identified.

The office of J. E. McElroy at 900 Broadway was robbed of a typewriter last night.

the immense plant being put in at Crockett, besides the large additions that have been made to the Alvarado plant, are the most unmistakable evidence of good faith that the future prosperity of the industry is beyond a doubt.

The promoters of the Crockett refinery are to a large extent owners of plantations in Hawaii and the crop now growing will all come to Oakland, as the total capacity of the new refinery will be from 700 to 800 tons per day. As the average cargo of the small sailing vessels in the island sugar trade is about 1,000 tons, it will require a constant stream of vessel to bring the raw sugar here. A good portion will come by steamers, which will bring from 2,000 to 3,000 tons at once, and these will have to coal here and refit here and these facts make it certain that there is something very definite upon which to assert that the centralization of the sugar industry of the State in Oakland is not an idle boast.

AT ALVARADO.

A party of Oakland and San Francisco merchants visited the Alvarado beet sugar factory to-day, by invitation of the management, to inspect the works which are now in full operation, the beet season being at its height.

FIGHTING THE FLAMES.

Heroic Efforts by the Men In the Smuggler Mine.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, Nov. 19.—A special to the Times from Aspen, Col., says:

"The situation in the Smuggler continues to grow more serious. Two startling features have developed since yesterday, causing no little alarm. One is the discovery that, by reason of the attempt to cut off the draught on the upper levels, lapping the big drift has had the effect of driving the dead or heavy gases down to the pump station on the ninth level, thereby endangering the pumps. As soon as this was discovered a force of men was put to work putting in a solid masonry bulkhead back of the pump station.

The second alarming feature is the discovery of inflamable gas. To what extent this kind of gas is generating is not known, but it is feared that it will form quite rapidly.

The master mechanic of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company at Newcastle, who had extensive experience with mine fires is on the ground with Vajen-Baker smoke protectors, and will make an examination of the mine this afternoon.

Manager Hallett said this morning he did not consider the outlook as favorable as yesterday, but stated that he thought he was holding the fire satisfactorily. The air is being kept sufficiently pure on the seventh level to keep the men at work on the new drift that is being driven around the stope and good progress is being made there. The smoke and gas coming out of the shaft is no greater in volume than yesterday and no men have been overcome by gas during the past thirty-six hours. The relief pumps on the fifth level will be examined and put in shape for starting up at a moment's notice this afternoon by means of the smoke protectors.

A large number of men started to work in the Smuggler Mountain properties this morning. Up to noon only one man was reported as being overcome.

The air in the Gowenhoven tunnel appears all right, but great precautions are being used in going into the drifts and stopes above the tunnel level. Manager Hallett stated that no attempt will be made to recover the lead stope of the Smuggler until the new drift around the burning ore is completed and another direct attack is made on the fire. The Smuggler mill will not resume until the lead stope is recovered.

SEEKING EVIDENCE IN PRESCRIPTIONS.

Another Quest Being Carried Out in the Ketcham Case.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—When the inquest upon the body of John R. Ketcham was resumed to-day, another continuance was taken until next Tuesday.

This was done in order to allow the coroner and police time to go to each of the drug stores at which medicine was procured for Ketcham when he was ill and to compare the prescriptions on file with those in the possession of the physicians who issued them. This is to determine if the prescriptions were in any way changed after they left the hands of Dr. Deveny. Dr. Noel, the coroner's physician, has as yet made no report, either verbally or written, on the Ketcham case. After making a superficial examination on the day of the post mortem operation on the stomach, Dr. Noel remarked that there was a slight trace of alkaloid. He said it was probably due to the medicine Ketcham had taken. It is to settle this point that the examination of the prescriptions in the different drug stores is to be made.

BATTLED WITH GALES.

The State of California Has a Rough Time at Sea.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ASTORIA, Or., Nov. 19.—The O. R. & N. steamship State of California arrived in the harbor at 8 o'clock this morning, two days late from San Francisco. Some anxiety had been felt here concerning the safety of the State, owing to the hurricane which had been in force here for the past three days. To an Associated Press reporter this morning, in recounting his experiences, Captain Green of the State said:

"We left San Francisco on Monday morning on time and the sea was as smooth as glass. We had good weather all the way until off Cape Mendocino. There we struck a gale or hurricane, and our ship ploughed along through heavy seas until 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning, when we came abreast of lightship No. 67, fourteen miles off the mouth of the Columbia river. I signaled the lightship and shortly afterwards she blew three whistles at the regular intervals of fog horn practice. About 3 o'clock her lights suddenly went out save a slight glimmer on one of them like the flickering of an ordinary lamp which was burning out. Then all was dark.

"The seas were running mountain high and the wind was a hurricane rather than a gale. It was all one could do to stay on the bridge. We tried our best to keep near the lightship, hoping to sight her again and I hove to under our mainsail, keeping our head to sea, and remaining as near as possible to where I thought the lightship should be. When daylight came, there was no lightship in sight. We cruised about all day Wednesday and Thursday hoping to get sight of the lightship again. The weather was still something terrific and we had no opportunity of coming into port until 7 o'clock this morning. We remained all the time within a few miles of where the lightship had been.

"We did not suffer particularly. It was rough to be sure, but below decks all was comfortable and snug."

Affirmed His Devotion.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MADRID, Nov. 19.—The Captain-General of Galicia has telegraphed to the government here that in the interview which he had yesterday with General Weyler, the former Captain-General of Cuba, completely exculpated himself from the statements attributed to him on the occasion of his leaving Havana and affirmed his devotion and adhesion to the government.

THE LIEUTENANT IS NOW IN JAIL.

Railton Forgot His Family and Was Neatly Trapped.

An Exponent of "Americanism" Belied His Cherished Principles.

"Lieutenant" J. N. Railton, who was one of the principal organizers of "General" Kelly's Industrial Army, is in the county Jail. The manner in which he came to be arrested is unusual and so resembles a pursuit as pastime that East Oakland, who has had a warrant for the lieutenant for several days, but has been unable to find him.

Yesterday, Robinson decided upon a ruse. He found out that Railton was working occasionally at a tailor shop at 1211 Jay street. Robinson went to the place and expressed a desire to have a suit of clothes. Robinson wished his suit to be cut in a semi-military style and he understood that there was a man in the shop who could do it. He made an appointment to come this morning to be measured by the "lieutenant" who cuts clothes a' la militaire. Railton was on hand and when Robinson appeared the warrant was produced and the lieutenant was taken to jail.

Railton's trouble is that he is so anxious to regulate the affairs of others that he has neglected his wife and four children. On April 1st Railton left his wife and he has since done nothing to support them. When Mrs. Railton was sick she was sent to Fabiola Hospital and now that she is convinced she has been neglected, she swore to a complaint and now he will have to explain.

Railton, however, is not a womanhater, and Colonel Dimpfel has some data that will require some explanation should the case come to trial.

When arrested, Railton read the Colonel a lecture, and refused to be catechised. He was, some time ago, a prominent leader in the Volunteer movement, and is a great exponent, in his curbstone oratory, on "Americanism," as he sees it.

ALAMEDA NEWS.

A Valuable Megalethoscope Is Presented to the Free Library.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played-out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher of 2710 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men, after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book, mailed free on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart & Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

Mrs. Ann L. Bailey died yesterday morning at her home, 1511 Central avenue. Old age was the cause of death. She was a native of New York, 83 years of age. She came to Alameda fifteen years ago. A daughter, Mrs. Ed Schieffelin, a grand-daughter, Mrs. Josephine Swasey, and four great-grandchildren, Edwin, Douglass, George, and Walter Swasey, survive her. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 10 o'clock from the family residence.

THE RELIANCE FIGHTS.

Great Sport Is Expected at the Club Next Monday Evening.

The big boxing tournament of the Reliance Club will be held at the club rooms Monday evening. Three eight-round contests for decisions will be brought off, and the club has also arranged for a number of interesting preliminaries.

The main events will be between Williamson and McGoldrick, Lewis and Tye and Reilly and Savage. All the contests promise to be fast ones. Reilly and Savage are very evenly matched, and will make one of the prettiest goes ever seen at the club. Reilly fought Jimmy Lawler ten rounds in San Francisco not long ago, and it was a fast affair. Reilly also bested Schuler here, and he has many other victories to his credit. Savage is a Vallejo boy, and has bested all the men he has met at Burns Park.

Charles Tye will meet Henry Lewis. Tye is well known to the followers of boxing on this side of the bay, and they all know what kind of a fight he puts up. Lewis is a dangerous man, however, and will give Tye a hard battle.

Jack Williamson and Phil McGoldbrick will also battle eight rounds. Jack is well known here as champion wrestler of the coast at his weight, and he is also a good man at boxing.

A SENSATIONAL RIDE WITH ELLMIRT.

At Break-Neck Speed He Drives Blindfolded Through the Streets.

Followed by a crowd of perhaps fifty men and boys on bicycles and in carriages, the clever Ellmirt made another of his thrilling drives, blindfolded, in search of a missing article yesterday afternoon.

Shortly before 4 o'clock a committee of five, consisting of Mayor W. R. Thomas, City Engineer Monte Clement, Judge J. J. Allen and two newspaper men, left Ellmirt in the office of City Attorney Dow and repaired to a carriage which was in waiting in front of the City Hall. In the possession of Mayor Thomas was a small Japanese match box, which the committee was instructed to hide. Under instructions from the committee, Charles Grimme, the driver, whipped his team into a fast trot and proceeded by a circuitous route to the Reliance Club, where the box was hidden in a drawer, and the committee returned to the City Hall.

Then Ellmirt was effectually blindfolded with silk handkerchiefs, and was given the reins. A sensational start was made before the crowd of several hundred people that had congregated at the hall, and the carriage dashed up Fourteenth street, the horses being guided only by the blindfolded Ellmirt. The route taken by Ellmirt was the same over which the committee had driven.

At the Reliance Club Ellmirt drew up, alighted, rushed up stairs and found the box in the office drawer, where it had been placed by Mayor Thomas.

Tonight at Hamilton Hall Ellmirt and his wife will give another of their performances, when they will expose the tricks of spiritualists and mediums, such as slate writing, table tapping, etc.

SPEEDY RUINART PLEDGED BY ASHE.

Rudolph Neumann Holds a Chattel Mortgage on the Noted Racer

Porter Ashe has given a chattel mortgage for $1,000 on his famous racehorse Ruinart, to Rudolph Neumann. The document was placed on file yesterday in the County Recorder's office. It carries 8 per cent interest, and is made payable one day after date.

The reasons for Ashe's placing his racer in pawn are not divulged in the document, but among sporting men it is understood the turfite was simply securing Neumann for advances made.

Ruinart up to last winter was a grand race horse. Last season he won for the second time the Burns handicap with its $10,000 stake and added money. He was then sent to contest on Eastern tracks, but went wrong and did not fulfill expectations. For some time past Ruinart has been at Emeryville track undergoing gentle training, the hope being that he may round to and recover his old form.

Individual Cups.

The American Medical Association, at its recent convention in Baltimore, recognized the efforts made by Rev. V. Marshall Law of the Church of the Advent towards the exclusive use of the individual communion cup. Dr. Howard S. Anders in a paper read before the association said:

"The Rev. V. Marshall Law, M. D., an Episcopal rector in California for the last ten years, prior to which he was a practicing physician and analytic chemist, has devised an ingenious single sanitary cup with scalloped rim. It was designed to meet the requirements of a 'one-cup' ritual. Dr. Law has made a sturdy, single-handed and successful fight for sanitary communion in his locality. He believes the strong tide setting in his favor shows that it must come or we will have depopulated communion tables.

"Our Own American Medical Association would certainly give great impetus to this sanitary reform by giving it official sanction and recommendation."

Drank Alcohol.

R. M. Churchill, an inmate of the County Infirmary, died from the effects of alcoholic poisoning last night. The old man found some wood alcohol which had been left in the building by painters, and he drank freely of it. He then went to bed, and was found dead a short time afterward. Coroner Baldwin will hold an inquest tomorrow.

Entertainment Postponed.

MACHINES MUST GO.

No More Nickel-in-the-Slot Devices Will Be Allowed in Oakland.

CHIEF LLOYD TAKES A STAND.

Says He Will Arrest Persons Who Continue the Game.

LEGAL ASPECT OF THE MATTER

The Law Recognizes the Little Boxes as Gambling Affairs.

Chief of Police Lloyd decided this morning that the little card machines would have to follow the "Clondyke" and "Kalamazoo" machines, which he ordered the saloon men to quit playing several weeks ago.

This morning Chief Lloyd received the following opinion from Deputy District Attorney Melvin:

"Chas. E. Lloyd, Esq., Chief of Police—Dear Sir: In regard to your question as to whether or not the device called the 'Poker Hand Machine' is, as commonly operated, in violation of the law, I have this to say:

"This machine, as I am informed, is one in which, by the dropping of a nickel into a slot and the pressing of a button, five bunches of playing cards, arranged upon spring spindles, are set in motion. When these cards cease their rotation, payment in trade or checks, redeemable in trade, is made if the five cards in sight at the front of the machine happen to favor one of several recognized 'poker' combinations, said combinations and the amount to be won on each being plainly marked upon a card attached to the machine. The nickel goes into a locked coffer accessible to the owner of the device.

"After an examination of the authorities, I am of the same opinion as that expressed by the learned District Attorney of the city and county of San Francisco, namely, that the operation of these devices in the manner above indicated is a violation of section 319 of the Penal Code of the State. I am yours very respectfully, "HENRY A. MELVIN."

Upon receipt of the foregoing, Chief Lloyd prepared the following letter on the subject for the Tribune:

"Oakland, Cal., November 19, 1897.

"Editor Tribune: In reference to the 'nickel-in-the-slot' question, I have been convinced for some time that these devices are all in direct violation, not only of section 319, but section 330 as well, of the State law, but as I have no desire whatever to do an injury to the business of any Oakland merchant, I submitted the matter to City Attorney Dow, whose opinion has been heretofore published in the newspapers, and also to Prosecuting Attorney Henry A. Melvin, whose opinion is herewith submitted. Both opinions support my theory that the said devices are contrary to law, and are in accord with the elaborate opinion handed down by the District Attorney of the city and county of San Francisco, to which opinion, it will be noted, Mr. Melvin refers in his opinion above quoted.

"Now that this opinion is given, there is only one thing left for me to do, and that is to enforce the law. I request all merchants having said nickel-in-the-slot devices in operation in their places of business to save the trouble and expense of arrest by at once ceasing to run the said machines and all other similar devices. However, I will state that failure to comply with this suggestion of mine will result in speedy arrest and prosecution. It is not incumbent upon me to notify each one of those having said machines, and neither have I the time, and I take it that this notice should be sufficient. An order to each of the captains to see that all such nickel-in-the-slot devices be suppressed will follow this notice at once. Trusting that, as in the past, a word of warning is all that will be necessary to law abiding business men, and that nothing will arise from this question to mar the hitherto pleasant relations existing between the Police Department and the Oakland business men, I am very sincerely.

"CHAS. E. LLOYD,
"Chief of Police."

FINANCIAL ECHOES FROM WALL STREET.

A Partial Recovery in Prices Noted During Last Week.

Abatement of Feeling Over Cuban Affairs Has a Good Effect.

(Special to The Tribune.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19, 1897.—During the past week the Stock Exchange market has continued unsettled, but nevertheless has exhibited an improved tone and a partial recovery in prices. The despondent and semi-panicky feeling has disappeared, and the downward pressure appears to have exhausted its force. This improvement has come in an entirely natural way. The reduced range of prices has been regarded as low compared with the condition of the country, the large earnings of the railroads and the prospects of future traffic. There has been a general feeling that, at some later stage, there must be a reaction which, with an easy money market, may carry values approximately near to the level of those of September; and this has brought buying orders into the market which have produced a rise of fully two points on most of the active stocks. The purchases have not been on a large scale, but the fact that such an advance has resulted from such moderate buying is evidence of the intrinsic strength of the market.

The staying quality of the market, however, remains to be tested. It may be that the buying is based upon an expectation of a moderate advance, rather than in view of any considerable immediate advance. We are disposed to regard it as experimental rather than as a buying in of stocks in anticipation of a straightforward and continuous rise; nevertheless we do not regard it as impossible that it may develop into the latter. We are, however, coming near to the assembling of Congress, and prudent operators are likely to avoid accumulating large lines of stocks until the Administration and Congress have shown their disposition upon certain important and sensitive questions. At present, there is no positive apprehension of any disturbing action being taken; and yet, as it is possible that jingoistic and silverite orators may try to raise a breeze in the Senate, or even in the House, there is a disposition to defer large operations until the temper of Congress has fairly expressed itself. Considerations of this kind are likely to check the reviving "bull" feeling from developing into reckless buying. This, however, does not mean a reaction from the improvement that has been realized; it means that while the recovery is likely to prove permanent, yet the speculative spirit may be expected to be held in prudent restraint for the next few weeks.

Within the last few days, there has been a distinct abatement of the acuteness of the market feeling on the Cuban situation, and this has had much to do with the week's recovery. In part, this has been due to the pacific tone of Spain's complete reply to the representations made by our Government through Minister Woodford, and equally to the authentic assurances that the Administration is much gratified at the temper and statements of that document and finds in it no reason for changing from its patient attitude towards Spain. This more assured feeling has also been encouraged by the constant discovery that the disquieting rumors that have found such free circulation have, for the most part, turned out to be inventions or exaggerations intended for effect in inflaming public opinion or encouraging pessimistic speculation. This sort of scare has been much overdone, and Wall street has had enough experience in needless depressions for the benefit of the "bear" side to receive such rumors with a wide margin of discount in the future.

The people ought to be willing to leave this entire matter to the Administration for settlement, and have faith that the best will be done for the interests of all concerned. The only course, therefore, is for the people to pay as little attention as possible to floating rumors about what the Administration and the Government of Spain are going to do or not going to do. President McKinley can be trusted to do the right thing at the right time, and if the matter be simply left to him and his Cabinet associates, all will be well. It will be a great deal better to have it take that course than to be left for settlement to the press, politicians or Wall street. These three important representative forces can only conjecture and agitate, while the Administration is vested with full power to make a settlement of the affair. The situation calls for faith, hope and charity on the part of the American people. London quotations for American securities, and the Paris quotations for Spanish Government 4s are now the best guides to enable our people to form an opinion as to the relations existing between the American and Spanish Governments. During the recent flurry on Wall street on vague reports, Spanish 4 per cent bonds remained at about 60 on the Paris Bourse, when they might easily have fallen 25 per cent from that price if there had been any foundation whatever for the rumors circulated here. London's important buying of American securities recently is also evidence that they have not shared in the alarm that a conflict was imminent between America and Spain. The great financiers of London are in closer relation with the European Governments and diplomats than are those of this country, and therefore are not governed so much by the rumors floating in the cities. The reports that Spain wants to pick a quarrel with this country are absurd. As a matter of fact, Spain's vital interest is to keep out of a war with America. In relation to war, Lord Salisbury's remarks at the Mayor's banquet in London were very significant. He showed that England's interests are not for war conquests, but market conquests, and that is equally applicable as applied to Germany and France, as well as other civilized and go-ahead nations. These results can be achieved through peace alone, and not by nations taking each other by the throat—A process utterly destructive of business interests. The great nations of the world have reached a point where wise and adroit diplomacy is the best means of preserving peace. Our public men in this country have yet to realize this fact. What is needed more than anything else is specific education to qualify students for up-to-date statesmanship. We have felt the hurtful effects of rough methods now long enough. The last clause of the Venezuelan message, which produced disaster to business interests almost as great as a war would have done, was an evidence of this.

In some other respects, conditions affecting the securities market have improved. The yellow fever has almost died out at all points, which will have the effect of reviving business in localities at which it has been suspended for some weeks and of transferring to the railroads large quantities of freight which have been held in quarantine. The roads connecting with the Granger States still show large increases of earnings, notwithstanding that the farmers are holding back their grain in the hope of higher prices. Advices from the West indicate the prospect of an extraordinary trade next season with the agricultural States, as the farmers will then be in receipt of the whole proceeds of their crops. The fall in the price of anthracite coal has been construed as an unfavorable factor on Wall street, and was the cause of some selling. It does not mean, however, that there has been any failure in the demand for coal, but rather that the producers have taken a too sanguine view of the prospective consumption and run into an excessive output. Nor is it considered how much benefit this reduction in the cost of power brings to the industries and the railroads. The country can never be hurt by reasonably cheap coal. London has been, during the week, a free buyer of our stocks, and also a seller; but its purchases are estimated to have exceeded its sales by about 20,000 shares.

The following is a synopsis in brief of the situation: The forces working for an improvement in the financial situation are substantial. Those working in the opposite direction are mainly sentimental. The basis of the recent advance in railroad securities is still in existence, of which the railroad earnings are the evidence. I venture the prediction that the coming spring business of this country will be the largest on record. A better understanding between this Government and that of Spain, which is very perceptible, will make war rumors of materially less importance hereafter. The decision of the Supreme Court in the Alabama railroad case was not only important as a decision, but also in showing a more favorable attitude to railroads; the recent decision of the Appellate Court in this State, which weakened the Lexow attack under the trust law, on the anthracite coal properties; the London change of front in becoming more favorable to American securities, and the continuation of the large exports, especially of wheat—all these factors combined furnish a strong backing to the side of confidence, and take the sharp edge off the bears' weapons, which have lately been irresponsible rumors. The market has already suffered a very heavy decline, and will soon have a fair advance as a natural reaction at least.

Notice of Hearing Before the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda of a petition of M. L. Show and Others, for the Purpose of Regulating and Controlling the Charge for Water and Compensation to Be Collected by the Contra Costa and Oakland Water Companies in the County of Alameda, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that on the 6th day of December, 1897, at the Board rooms of the Board of Supervisors of the county of Alameda, city of Oakland, of said county, at 11 o'clock A. M. of said day or as soon thereafter as the same can be heard, the petition of M. L. Show and others for the purpose of regulating and controlling the rates and compensation to be collected by the Contra Costa and Oakland Water Companies, for the county of Alameda, will be duly heard and considered by the Board of Supervisors of the county of Alameda.

Said petition reads as follows:

PETITION FOR REDUCTION OF WATER RATES.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County:—

The petition of the undersigned respectfully shows and represents:

That the Council of the city of Oakland, acting under the power conferred on them by law, have materially reduced the charge for the use of water supplied to the public by the Contra Costa and Oakland Water Companies, and that the new rates made by the said City Council are based upon the entire plant of said Contra Costa and Oakland Water Companies and upon their entire revenue, and are not confined to their expenditures and revenues arising solely within the corporate limits of the city of Oakland;

That therefore rates which will yield a lawful revenue within the said city of Oakland will also yield a lawful revenue when made applicable outside said limits;

That your petitioners are inhabitants of and taxpayers of this county of Alameda, State of California, and reside outside the corporate limits of any city or town in said county, and further represent that said petitioners are water-rate payers.

Wherefore the undersigned do hereby most respectfully petition your Honorable Board, acting under the powers conferred by law for the regulation of charges for the use of water as laid down by "An Act to regulate and control the sale, rental and distribution of appropriated water in this State, other than in any city, city and county, or town therein, etc.," approved March 12, 1895, regulate and reduce the rates lawfully to be charged by the Contra Costa and Oakland Water Companies for the use of water in the territory within your jurisdiction outside the corporate limits of the city of Oakland as will make them uniform with such lawful rates as were recently enacted to apply within the corporate limits of the city of Oakland;

And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

President McKinley Favors Autonomy for Cuba.

ADVICE TO THE ANGRY CUBANS.

Independence Too Much to Expect for the Present.

WAR RESOLUTIONS CRIED DOWN

Good Times in This Country Will Disarm Blatant Windbags.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The World this morning makes the following statement:

"The World is able to say on very high authority that President McKinley will tacitly approve the programme for autonomy or home rule for Cuba which Spain now promises.

"Second, that the President will express the hope that the Cubans will not prolong their war for complete independence, but will accept instead a form of autonomy.

"Third, that if the Cubans do not heed his advice, Spain will be given more time without interference from the United States.

"Fourth, the President says that he ardently desires peace both at home and abroad. 'War scares' and 'belligerency resolutions' disturb business, retard prosperity and do no good. A new Congress is to be chosen next fall and everything depends on 'good times.' A season of peace from Cuban sensations' is therefore now almost certain.

"Fifth, Spain has been informed of McKinley's hopes and plans, and as the first evidence of her own fond intentions and good will, she pardoned and released yesterday the American crew of the filibustering schooner Competitor, caught under arms off the coast of Cuba on April 15, 1896."

THE WHALERS MAY NOT BE IN DANGER.

Views on the Situation by a Skipper Returned From the North.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A special to the Herald from New Bedford, Mass., says:

"Captain David F. Devoll of this city, master of the steam whaler William Baylies, who has just returned from a cruise in the Arctic ocean, says he believes the crews of the whalers caught in the ice are safely sheltered in their ships. He thinks they are anchored in the lagoon a few miles from the Alaskan shore, east of Point Barrow. Captain Devoll says that the Belvedere, Orca, Jessie H. Freeman, Rosario, and Alexander started from the cruising grounds east of Point Barrow in company. Reaching the reef which forms a sort of backwater, the five ships encountered new ice, when they all swung around to the west end of the reef and entered the lagoon, a favorable refuge for whalemen in that locality.

"The men in charge of the vessels thus caught," he adds, "are masters of experience and know just what is necessary under such circumstances. He thinks the Belvedere, Orca and Freeman had a sufficient quantity of provisions to provide for the crews of the four vessels until next summer.

"Captain Devoll believes that the Fearless, Newport, Wanderer and Jeannie, the other four ships supposed to be imperiled further to the eastward, are at Herschel Island. He says it is known that they were there August 26th with the ships that intended to winter north and he does not believe an attempt was made by them to come west when they found ice making. Ice made unusually early the past season. He further adds that if they are sheltered at Herschel Island, there is no reason to believe they are in any danger."

DEDICATION OF BIRDS' NEST AT BEULAH.

A New Home for Children Built by Mrs. Carrie Judd Montgomery.

The Bird's Nest, the new home built for children by Mrs. Carrie Judd Montgomery at Beulah, was dedicated last night. The building is large and of two stories, capable of sheltering forty children and attendants.

The Nest adjoins the Orphans' Home, with which it is connected by a wooden bridge. All the cooking is done at the Home, while the Nest contains the nurseries and dormitories.

The programme for the evening was carried out mostly by the children themselves. Mrs. C. T. Mills was present and spoke and some of the students of the college also assisted. Captain Allemann from the Home of Rest, Ensign Heffeman and others from the Rescue Home were present.

The colony at Beulah now includes the Home of Peace, a training home for foreign missionaries, the Home of Rest for sick Salvation Army officers, the Colored Folks' Home, the King's Daughters' Home for Incurables, the Children's Orphanage, the Bird's Nest the Rescue Home and the home of the Montgomery's.

A WOMAN ACTS FOR UNCLE SAM.

The First Instance in Which the Sex Occupied a Consular Place.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—For what is believed to be the first time in the history of this government, a woman is acting as one of its representatives abroad.

Secretary Sherman has approved the request of J. Adolphe Guy, Consular Agent of the United States at Edmunston, New Brunswick, for two weeks' leave and appointed Emma Hart to act as Consular Agent during his absence. Miss Hart will probably have little business to do during her term of office. It is said at the State Department that if she takes in more than $20 the officials will believe the natural gallantry of New Brunswickians has caused them to abandon other agencies and consulates and secured the services of Miss Hart in transacting their business.

Such men as Ex-Governor Moseby of the Chickasaw nation and the governors of the Cherokee, Creek and Seminole nations will be here and take part in the proceedings.

Rain Spoils the Burning Down of a Beleagured Town.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A despatch to the Herald from Havana says:

"A battle of considerable importance has taken place near Guamajay. The Cubans were commanded by Rodriguez and Pedro Diaz in the fight. The Spaniards had 46 killed and 170 wounded. The rebel loss was also heavy. On account of the condition of the grounds, the Spaniards could make no use of their artillery and were obliged to retreat to the forts of the town. The rebels set fire to the brushwood surrounding the town and tried to burn the town, but rain spoiled the scheme. This is the district toward which General Pasrado is proceeding and, as there are strong forces of Cubans near a pitched battle is not unlikely."

DENIAL OF THE GIBARA STORY.

The Superseded Commander Was Not Treated as a Hero.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A dispatch to the Herald from Corunna, Spain, says:

"Your correspondent has just returned from on board the Montserrat, which anchored in this port with General Weyler on board. The quay was crowded with a multitude, but the crowd was perfectly undemonstrative. It may be said that General Weyler's reception, so far as the Spanish people was concerned, was a complete fiasco.

"He did not appear on the deck, but remained locked in his cabin, refusing absolutely to see anybody except the government officials, but he made a short speech in reply to the commission. His remarks were perfectly complimentary and devoid of political significance.

"The Marquis de Ahumada stated that they had a fair voyage, but refused all other information.

"An influential passenger on board said that a pump broke and necessitated putting in at Gibara, but he flatly denied the reported demonstration in General Weyler's favor, saying he saw nothing of it and disbelieves that the same honors were paid to General Weyler as though he was still Captain-General of Cuba. He says that General Weyler went ashore at Port Vera, but no demonstration was made.

"General Weyler, he says, after he left, received the right to allow or refuse passage. It is said the Marquis de Comillas, who is head of the Spanish trans-Atlantic Company, practically gave the boat to General Weyler for the entire journey, although the General only pays three first-class fares. In consequence, he scarcely allowed any one but the military to take passage and many civilians were refused permission to make the voyage.

"The Montserrat goes from here direct to Barcelona, so the passengers and cargo for Santander or Cadiz must go overland. This arrangement coincides with General Weyler's wish, since he is anxious to land at Barcelona, because his family is there, and it is thought he will not come ashore here. The Montserrat brings 600 troops all sick, and will proceed to Barcelona at once. General Weyler's son, who came here to meet his father, was treated to a serenade by a group of serenaders. At the conclusion of the serenade a body of people 1,500 strong shouting "viva Weyler," and hooting at La Vose de Galios, the Liberal newspaper which has been strongly against demonstrations in Weyler's honor. The mob tried to get to the office of the newspaper, but were prevented by a cordon of police. No violence was done and by 1 o'clock the town was perfectly tranquil.

"Elaborate preparations are being made by Weyler's adherents to give him an enthusiastic welcome."

TRYING TO HARMONIZE.

Effect of the Conference With Laurier and Davies.

MANY QUESTIONS INVOLVED.

The Seal Agitation Can Not Be Settled by Itself.

EFFECTS OF THE NEW TARIFF.

Canada Wants to Get Her Lumber Into This Country.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 19.—Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir Louis Davies have returned from Washington. Within a couple of hours after their arrival a meeting of the Cabinet was held, at which the Premier explained the recent negotiations with President McKinley and his ministers. As a result of this it is stated that the Cabinet has decided to send a commission to Washington, composed of men familiar with the various questions involved, to meet with a similar body of men appointed on behalf of the United States, with ex-Secretary Foster at its head, and endeavor to reach a settlement on all boundary and other questions at present at issue between the two countries.

At the conclusion of the Cabinet meeting, Premier Laurier, in an interview, said:

"It is plain to us that the sealing question cannot be settled by itself. It can only be considered in connection with the irritating and important questions. There is no intention whatever of negotiating any reciprocity treaty that would interfere with or affect Canada's existing British referential tariff."

Sir Louis Davies said: "I have just been reading the press report sent out from Washington and it seems to represent our final conclusion fairly well. The representatives of the American and Canadian governments are satisfied with the results of the conference held and a statement of facts has been mutually agreed upon, which establishes a firm basis for future operations. We now know exactly where we stand, and will not hereafter be groping in the dark. Each party knows its true position. After both representative parties confer with their colleagues in their respective administrations, statements regarding the proposed reciprocal trade relations will be exchanged and replies submitted by each.

"I can add nothing now to what I said as to the American tariff pressing too heavily upon us in respect to their duties on our lumber, coal and fish exports. I think that the United States authorities, after they have maturely considered the whole situation in regard to Canada, will agree as to the correctness of our representation. This may carry sufficient weight with the joint commission, should one be agreed to, to bring about such reciprocity arrangements as are most desirable to both countries.

"From what General Foster has intimated we think that the prospects of the final appointment of a joint commission are good."
